Mental Health and Alcohol and Other Drugs Workforces Survey – now open

The Mental Health Commission has launched a statewide workforces survey to build a clearer, shared understanding of the mental health and alcohol and other drug (AOD) workforce across Western Australia.

This is an important opportunity for workers across all roles and settings to contribute their insights – from who makes up the workforce, to current workforce gaps, learning needs and what will be required into the future.

Survey findings will provide an essential evidence-base to inform future workforce planning and policy development and help ensure the voice of staff delivering services is reflected in system-level decisions.

The survey is open to all staff working in mental health and AOD services. Participation is voluntary and confidential. This study has Western Australian Aboriginal Health Ethics Committee approval (HREC 1569).

We encourage you to take part and share the survey with your networks.
