OVERVIEW

The South West region covers an area of 24,000 square kilometres, representing around 1.0% of the landmass of Western Australia. The South West region had a population of almost 180,000 in 2014 (representing 7.0% of the State’s population). By 2025, the population is expected to reach almost 233,000 persons (7.3% of the State’s population). The Australian Bureau of Statistics reported that between 2013 and 2014, some of the fastest population increases were in the South West, including: Gelorup/Dalyellup/Stratham/Busselton region (4.5%), Margaret River (4.0%), and Bunbury (2.5%).

ABORIGINAL POPULATION

The Aboriginal population in the South West was approximately 3,300 people in 2011, which represented 4.4% of the total Aboriginal population in Western Australia. This is expected to grow to almost 5,500 by 2025, with the percentage increasing slightly to 4.5%.

CONSULTATION FEEDBACK

During the consultation process for the Plan, people in regional areas raised a range of issues and priorities, including:

- a need for a greater level of detail about services for their region
- culturally secure services and programs for Aboriginal people
- the high proportion of children and young people in some areas and the need for early intervention
- challenges regarding transport and geographical distance.

Feedback received from the South West consultation included the need for alcohol and other drug services to be included in the Community Treatment Services strategy: Establish a police co-response program (see page 51 of the Plan). The Mental Health Commission has considered this suggestion and alcohol and other drug services will be included in the Mental Health and Police Co-Response program.
SERVICES

Community Support Services: give people with mental health, alcohol and other drug problems the help and support they need to participate in their community. Support services can include programs that help people identify and achieve their goals and that assist them to access and maintain employment, education, housing and social interaction.

Community Treatment Services: provide clinical care in the community. These services generally operate with multidisciplinary teams who provide outreach, transition support, relapse prevention planning, physical health assessment and support for good general health and wellbeing. Alcohol and other drug community treatment services also include pharmacotherapy, screening and counselling.

Community Bed-Based Services: provide 24-hour, seven days per week recovery-oriented care in a home-style setting, low medical withdrawal services and structured, intensive residential rehabilitation for people with alcohol and other drug problems, following withdrawal. These services support people to improve their capacity to function independently following a stay at an inpatient unit or to avoid hospital admission where appropriate.

Hospital-Based Services: include acute, subacute and non-acute inpatient units, emergency departments, consultation and liaison services, hospital in the home, mental health observation areas, and alcohol and other drug detoxification services.

NOTES

Note: All services are Mental Health and Alcohol and Other Drug combined unless otherwise specified.

Define: Hours of Support (community support only): includes face-to-face time only. For example, hours a person spends in respite care, hours spent undertaking an activity, hours of face-to-face support with peer workers, or health, social and welfare support workers etc.

Define: Hours of Service (prevention, community treatment, specialised statewide services, forensics): includes face-to-face time between consumers/carers and staff, travel time, and time for other duties such as administrative requirements, training and research.

Note: the Plan articulates the overall intentions regarding service development and transformation of mental health, alcohol and other drug services over the next ten years. Exact locations and distributions of services as shown are subject to the Government’s fiscal capacity and approval through normal budgetary processes, and will be determined by a combination of consultation process and the assessment of relative feasibility to deliver the service.
SERVICES FOR THE SOUTH WEST BY THE END OF 2025

The Plan models the level and mix of services required across Western Australia by the end of 2025. The need for services in the South West by the end of 2025 includes:

- Major increases in community-based mental health (to 406,000 hours per year) and drug and alcohol support services (to 20,000 hours per year). These include peer support, employment, education and training programs, housing, social opportunities and help with daily living tasks.
- Major increases in community-based clinical treatment services for mental health (to 280,000 hours per year) and alcohol and other drug problems (to 147,000 hours per year) including the expansion of drug and alcohol service hubs and increased outreach services.
- For the Southern Country Region (includes Great Southern, South West and Wheatbelt) the increase in community based clinical treatment services for mental health represents a 108% increase on current levels, and for alcohol and other drugs, an almost fourfold increase.
- Increase community-based mental health beds (from 25 to 74).
- Provide 55 drug and alcohol residential rehabilitation beds and three community-based beds for low medical withdrawal.
- Increase mental health hospital and hospital-in-the-home (HITH) beds (from 27 beds to 77) which will enable approximately 1,400 additional mental health admissions per year.
- Eight additional hospital beds for medically supervised complex alcohol and other drug withdrawal will enable approximately 290 additional admissions per year.
MODELLING

The modelling which underpins the Plan has been undertaken according to the population in given geographical regions, including:

- North Metropolitan
- South Metropolitan
- Northern and Remote comprising of:
  - Goldfields
  - Kimberley
  - Pilbara
  - Midwest
- Southern Country comprising of:
  - Great Southern
  - South West
  - Wheatbelt

Exact locations and distributions of services will be determined by a combination of consultation processes and the assessment of relative feasibility to deliver the service. For example, if the modelling identifies one bed in a region, consideration will be given as to how that can be adapted or combined with other service types for the practicalities of service delivery in order to successfully and efficiently commission the services required for the region.

The modelling tools’ output is provided in hours of service, hours of support or bed numbers; however, these are considered a proxy for the levels of service that will be provided in any given location. The modelled output does not specify the model of service or the service provider.

In consultation with key stakeholders (including consumers, carers, families, and clinicians), models of service will be developed to achieve a degree of standardisation throughout the State. This will enable a consistent standard of service provision, however, this must be balanced with the key aim of personalisation to meet individual needs and adaptability to meet local area characteristics (including service availability, population profile, diversity and cultural factors).
